DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-18 and 36-39, drawn to an inground lift, classified in class 187, subclass 219.
  - II. Claims 19-23, drawn to a lift bay, classified in class 187, subclass 205.
  - III. Claims 24-34, drawn to a method of constructing a lift bay, classified in class 52, subclass 741.11.
  - IV. Claim 35, drawn to method of supporting an inground lift, classified in class 187, subclass 205.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because a lift bay is comprised of an inground lift. The subcombination has separate utility such as a stationary lift for vehicles.

Art Unit: 3652

3. Inventions I and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the inground lift as claimed can be made by another and materially different process such as by hand.

4. Inventions I and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process of supporting an inground lift as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus such as by hand.

5. Inventions II and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the lift bay as claimed can be made by another and materially different process such as by hand.

6. Inventions II and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process of supporting an inground lift as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand.

7. Inventions III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions of the constructing method of a lift bay has no relation with the invention of the supporting method of an inground lift.
